Workplace Success Profile®

Hire Reliable Workers

Recruiters and hiring managers often know exactly what they need for new entry-level hires: people who are reliable, hard-working, and work well with others. However, the challenge is figuring out the best way to do it. We have an assessment that can help make hiring for these competencies much easier.

The Solution: A valid measure of what a successful worker looks like that is also quick and easy to administer

The Workplace Success Profile is intended to measure the baseline, required-upon-entry behavioral competencies of new hires.

- Designed to be appropriate across all entry-level jobs and industries
- Quickly administer to job candidates
- Appropriate reading level set for entry level and individual contributor roles
- Can be configured with additional scales to be more tailored to particular jobs or industries
- Candidate reports provide detailed scores on each scale as well as interpretations and interview questions to aid recruiters and hiring managers in the talent acquisition process designed to cover all entry-level call center jobs
